

GERMAN SIMPLIFIED • MINI-BUCH

Anna kommt in München an

An A1 story for learning German

- Anna kommt in München an.

| Anna arrives in Munich.

- Der Bahnhof ist groß und laut.

| The train station is big and loud.

- Anna sucht den Ausgang.

| Anna is looking for the exit.

💡 TIP

ankommen is a separable verb: the prefix „an” moves to the end of the sentence – Anna kommt ... an.

- „Entschuldigung, wo ist die U-Bahn?“, fragt Anna.

| "Excuse me, where is the subway?" Anna asks.

- ★ ● Ein Mann zeigt auf die Treppe.

| A man points to the stairs.

- Anna sagt: „Danke schön!“

| Anna says: "Thank you very much!"

💡 TIP

Use Entschuldigung to politely get someone's attention – perfect for asking questions on the street!

- Anna kauft ein Ticket am Automaten.

| Anna buys a ticket at the machine.

- Die U-Bahn kommt in zwei Minuten.

| The subway arrives in two minutes.

- Anna steigt schnell ein.

| Anna gets on quickly.

💡 TIP

kaufen needs an accusative object: Anna kauft ein Ticket (not „einen Ticket“ – Ticket is neuter!).

- Das Hotel ist in der Nähe.

| The hotel is nearby.

- Die Tür ist aus Glas.

✦ | The door is made of glass.

- Anna geht langsam hinein.

| Anna walks in slowly.

💡 TIP

aus Glas = „made of glass“. Use aus + dative to say what material something is made of.

- Die Frau an der Rezeption lächelt.

| The woman at the reception smiles.

- „Willkommen in München!“, sagt sie.

◆ | "Welcome to Munich!" she says.

- „Haben Sie eine Reservierung?“, fragt sie.

| "Do you have a reservation?" she asks.

💡 TIP

Sie (capitalized) is the polite form of address – use it with strangers and in professional life.

- Anna bekommt den Schlüssel.

| Anna gets the key.

- Das Zimmer ist im dritten Stock.

✦ | The room is on the third floor.

- Anna ist müde, aber glücklich.

| Anna is tired, but happy.

💡 TIP

aber connects two contrasting ideas: müde aber glücklich (tired but happy) – both are true at once.

Vocabulary (1/2)

The most important words from the story

der Bahnhof

train station

der Ausgang

exit

die U-Bahn

subway

die Treppe

stairs

der Automat

vending machine

das Ticket

ticket

ankommen

to arrive (separable)

einsteigen

to get on (separable)

Grammar tip: Separable verbs like ankommen and einsteigen split up in a sentence: the prefix (an-, ein-) moves to the end. „Anna steigt schnell ein.“

Vocabulary (2/2)

The most important words from the story

die Tür door

das Glas glass

die Rezeption reception desk

die Reservierung reservation

der Schlüssel key der Stock floor (of a building)

müde tired

glücklich happy

Grammar tip: Ordinal numbers like dritte (third) take an „-e“: der dritte Stock. After articles: „im dritten Stock“ (dative).

Sentence breakdown (1/2)

How the sentences are built

SUBJECT

Anna

VERB (SEPARABLE)

kommt ... an

PLACE

in München

The verb „ankommen“ splits: „kommt“ stays in position 2 and „an“ jumps to the end of the sentence.

QUESTION WORD

Wo

VERB

ist

SUBJECT

die U-Bahn

W-questions start with the question word, then the verb comes right after – just like position 2 in a statement.

SUBJECT

Anna

VERB

kauft

ACCUSATIVE

ein Ticket

PLACE

am Automaten

After kaufen the purchased thing is in the accusative: ein Ticket (not „einen“, because „Ticket“ is neuter).

Sentence breakdown (2/2)

How the sentences are built

SUBJECT

Die Frau an der Rezeption

VERB

lächelt

A subject can be long – here „an der Rezeption“ is a place phrase that describes the subject in more detail.

VERB

Haben

SUBJECT (POLITE)

Sie

ACCUSATIVE

eine Reservierung

Polite questions with „Sie“ work just like normal yes/no questions: verb first, then the subject.

SUBJECT

Anna

VERB

ist

ADJECTIVES

müde, aber glücklich

aber joins two opposites in one sentence – both feelings are true at the same time.

Well done!

You've read your first story in German. Keep going with the next story in the book.

Marvin Graf
— GERMAN SIMPLIFIED —

YOUR NEXT STEP

Keep going — all the way to B2

That was one short A1 story. My full program takes you from zero to B2 — step by step, with a real teacher.

Clear video lessons — A1 to B2, in the right order

2,600+ flashcards — spoken in my own voice

More stories, exercises & exam practice

Start your 5-day free trial

Free · no credit card · cancel anytime

germanwithmarvin.com

★ 4.9 on Preply · Top 10% of German tutors · 2,587 lessons taught

Marvin Graf

— GERMAN SIMPLIFIED —

© German with Marvin LLC · Alle Rechte vorbehalten